

WHEN STUDENTS SAY THEY HAVE NOTHING TO DO...

- Have they got a copy of their exam board specification printed?
- Have they completed the homework recorded in their planner?
- Are they up to date with all coursework? Deadlines should be in planners.
Can they complete additional coursework in advance of deadlines or prepare for NEAs?
- Have they made revision notes for all subjects?
- Have they copied these notes out again....and again?
- Have they created flash cards and been tested on them?
- Have they accessed revision websites?
- Have they accessed and completed past papers/exam questions?
- Have they marked the past papers and checked the examiner's report?
- Have they read additional subject material around their subject?
- Have they gone over assessments from their books and repeated questions?
- Have they researched options post 6th Form and arranged relevant work experience?
- Have they used thinking harder strategies to review their work?
