Note It

Reduce the number of words

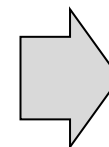

- Trigger Words - reduce your notes by up to 80%
- Creating Flash Cards

Map It

Dual code by using graphics and text together

- Thinking Maps
- Mind maps

Quiz It

Test yourself

- Past Papers
- Using Flash Cards

Make your Main Heading nice and bold – it should be the topic of the page and the first thing you see when you look at the page.

Make your sub-headings bold (or in their own colour) and put them at the top of a new topic related to the main heading.

Your bullet-points should be only a few words long and focus on key words – you don't need to write full sentences!

To help you cut down the number of words you write or type, try drawing or imagining a line running down the middle of the page that you don't write past.
